

Striking the right chord at Singapore Botanic Gardens

Overcast skies could not keep classical music lovers away as the concert series Beethoven Im Garten returned after a two-year hiatus. The 45min concert at the Singapore Botanic Gardens yesterday evening was the first full orchestral outdoor concert with international participation here since the Covid-19 pandemic began, with Germany's Dresden Philharmonic and Kurt Masur Academy joining the Yong Siew Toh Conservatory Orchestra. ST PHOTO: DESMOND WEE