

NUS is Asia's top university again

The National University of Singapore (NUS) has been named Asia's best university for the fifth consecutive year in the Quacquarelli Symonds annual higher education ranking, while Nanyang Technological University (NTU) slipped several notches.

In the ranking released on Thursday, NUS came in 11th globally, retaining its place from last year, while NTU ranked 19th, down from 12th last year.