3 public service veterans top this year's National Day Awards list

They receive the Distinguished Service Order for contributions to Singapore over the years

Goh Yan Han
Political Correspondent

Three Singaporeans with a long record of public service have been conferred the Distinguished Service Order, one of the top national honours, for their contributions to the country over the years.

They are among 6,258 to get National Day honours this year.

The Distinguished Service Order, the highest accolade this year, is awarded to veteran diplomat and former Indian Heritage Centre advisory board chairman Gopinath Pillai, 84; Public Service Commission (PSC) chairman Lee Tzu Yang, 67; and the Ministry of Health's (MOH) chief health scientist Tan Chorh Chuan, 62.

Mr Pillai, a former ambassador-at-large, facilitated greater synergy and interaction between India and Singapore, said his citation. As chairman of the Institute of South Asian Studies at the National University of Singapore (NUS) from 2004 to 2021, he played a leading role in fostering Singapore-India relations.

His other roles included chairman of the Hindu Advisory Board from 1990 to 1999 and founding chairman of NTUC FairPrice Co-operative from 1983 to 1993.

Mr Lee, who has been PSC chairman since 2018, was recognised for his contribution to the public service, education and the arts. Under him, the PSC brought in a more diverse pool of scholarship candidates.

He is also chair of the board of trustees of the Singapore University of Technology and Design, the Esplanade and the Founders' Memorial Steering Committee.

"This is an honour I humbly accept on behalf of others who work with me. In my short time on the PSC, I have seen members and secretariat work tirelessly to increase our reach for diversity in talent, and to improve selection of strengths and traits, to enable the public service to do an even better job," Mr Lee said.

Professor Tan, who is also executive director of the MOH Office for Healthcare Transformation, said he was thankful for the opportunity to work in three areas that mean a great deal to him: improving health and healthcare, building the local research and innovation ecosystem, and contributing to the transformation of NUS. He was NUS president from 2008 to 2017.

"What was especially exciting and meaningful for me was the chance to be involved in creating and strengthening bridges between these sectors, to increase the overall impact," he said.

Covid-19 pandemic.

Four veterans in their fields were conferred the next highest award, the Meritorious Service Medal.

They are Mr Chan Yeng Kit, permanent secretary at MOH; Dr Andrew Phang, Justice of the Court of Appeal; Mr Seah Moon Ming, chairman of SMRT; and Mr David Wong, chairman of Republic Polytechnic.

Four foreign business leaders were among 67 individuals recognised with a Public Service Star for their contributions.

Mr Marcus Wallenberg, 65, a Swedish member of the Temasek International Panel, was Temasek's first international board director, from 2008 to 2020. Said the chair of northern European financial services group SEB: "Working with Temasek and Singapore for many years has been a true pleasure, as well as an opportunity for me to widen my perspectives and learn a lot from many exceptional people."

Sir James Dyson, 75, British founder and chairman of home appliance giant Dyson, said the award was a great honour and recognition of the whole Dyson team here. "Today, we proudly call the historic St James Power Station our global headquarters, and our wonderful Singapore engineers and scientists are driving exciting research programmes with Singapore's excellent universities – it is a highly supportive environment for a high-technology manufacturer," he said.

Also recognised were Mr Shimano Yozo, Singapore's Honorary Consul-General in Osaka, Japan, who is chairman and chief executive of bicycle component manufacturing firm Shimano; and Mr Bill Winters, a member of the Monetary Authority of Singapore's International Advisory Panel and group CEO of Standard Chartered Bank.

One recipient conferred honours posthumously is Dr Agnes Koong, who was awarded the Public Administration Medal (Bronze). The former community health director at SingHealth Polyclinics died last year at age 44 from leukaemia.

She was clinic director at Marine Parade Polyclinic from 2012 to 2019, where she oversaw the launch of a locker box service for collection of urgent medication after hours.

The late Mr Subaraj Rajathurai, a wildlife consultant and well-known conservationist, was conferred the Public Service Medal (Posthumous). He died in October 2019, aged 56.

His wife, former nurse Shamla Subaraj, said she and her two sons are deeply appreciative.

"It is surreal – I know he has done a lot for Singapore, especially for ecotourism. He would be chuffed, if he is listening from up there," she said. "He made his passion his work. It resonated with him as he was also very passionate when it came to wildlife, and he lived his life fighting for the wildlife and being a voice for the animals."

MR MOHAMED NOOR MOHAMED YUSOFE
President, Perkasus

Better known by his pen name Yusof Ef, Mr Mohamed Noor Mohamed Yusofe, 84, has been a stalwart in the Malay entertainment scene since he wrote his first lyrics in 1959.

Since then, the president and co-founder of Perkasus, the Association of Malay Singers, Composers and Professional Musicians, has worn many hats - Malay-language teacher, arts and entertainment historian, author of several books, television producer and playwright.

The songs he has written lyrics to have been sung by top names in entertainment in Singapore and Malaysia, including his mentor, the late P. Ramlee.

In 2011, Cikgu (Malay for teacher), as he is affectionately known, was conferred the Cultural Medallion.

He said: "I hope that succeeding generations of artists will continue to build upon the achievements of the past so that music and the arts will flourish, because they are important in the development of a positive society."

PROFESSOR ANG PENG HWA

Vice-President, Consumers Association of Singapore
Central Committee

"Knowing that I am part of the Consumers Association of Singapore, working to improve the environment for all consumers in Singapore, has been very meaningful for me," said Professor Ang Peng Hwa of Nanyang Technological University's Wee Kim Wee School of Communication and Information. "I know of many instances where consumers have been able to get redress because of the work at Case. It is rewarding enough. The award is an unexpected bonus."

He has also applied his research in other areas. For example, he researched self-regulation in the media and this has been useful for him as chair of the Advertising Standards Authority of Singapore, when working on social media advertising guidelines.

"I hope more Singaporeans will step up to volunteer for organisations like Case. You can't motivate people to do or not do things with money or power; so you will learn alternative ways to direct action and behaviour," he said.

DR SUDHA NAIR
Member, Public Service Commission

As a veteran social worker of more than 30 years, Dr Sudha Nair's work on issues affecting vulnerable children and family violence has helped shape many public policies on social services.

Dr Nair, executive director of Pave, the first family violence specialist centre, was the inaugural winner of the Outstanding Social Worker Award in 1998.

She was appointed to the Public Service Commission (PSC) in 2015. Together with other PSC members, she played a critical role in talent attraction and selection for the public service.

She is also an alternate member of the Council of Presidential Advisers, and a board member of the National University of Singapore, Singapore Indian Development Association and the Housing Board.

Dr Nair said she was very grateful and humbled to receive the award.

"To serve the nation in my various capacities over the years has been an honour which I will always cherish," she added.

Public Administration Medal (Bronze)

MS MARGARET LEE
Chief nurse of Alexandra Hospital

Ms Lee, 46, who has over 25 years of experience, is recognised for transforming the way nurses deliver care, improving their well-being, advocating partnership with caregivers and Covid-19 leadership. Initiatives the mother of three has pioneered include nurse-led care models where a nurse coordinates patient care from a multi-disciplinary team. She received the President's Award for Nurses, the nation's highest accolade for nursing, last year. She said: "I will continue to champion a more inclusive healthcare system, advancing professional equity to support nurses and other healthcare professionals."

Public Administration Medal (Bronze) (Military)

COL (DR) SHALINI ARULANANDAM
Commander, Military Medicine Institute

Col (Dr) Shalini Arulanandam, 43, was lauded for her exemplary leadership qualities in her SAF career. She strengthened the SAF's healthcare system by leading multiple reviews of healthcare policies, among other contributions. She was also seconded to the Singapore Civil Defence Force from 2018 to 2020 and was part of the fight against Covid-19. "This award is a great honour, but also a reminder that I still have a lot more to contribute, in exchange for everything that we take for granted every day in this place we call home," she said.

COL MOHAMED FERAZ MOHAMED AKBER
Head, Army Safety Inspectorate

Trained as an infantry officer, Col Feroz has held several key appointments including commanding officer of the 1st Battalion, Singapore Infantry Regiment and commander of the 2nd Singapore Infantry Brigade. He was also in the executive committee that organised the Army Open House 2022.

He now heads the Army Safety Inspectorate, which aims to prevent safety incidents during operations and training and investigate their causes.

He said: "The credit for this achievement really goes to my family who have supported me in every step of the way, as well as everyone I have had the privilege to serve alongside in my 23 years in the military."

MR ANDREW KHOO
CHIAT JIN

"In my years of serving with the Inter-Racial and Religious Confidence Circles (now known as Harmony Circles), I have met many others who are also passionate about championing harmony and unity.

"To me, this award recognises not only my own but our collaborative effort in nurturing a nation where everyone can truly feel at home."

PROFESSOR BRENDA YEOH
Chairman, Heritage Advisory Panel

"I am truly honoured and humbled in receiving the Public Service Medal. As a nation-state and a global city, Singapore is becoming more diverse and mobile. I hope to continue to draw on my research expertise in the field of migration and the city to contribute to the work of strengthening collective identity across peoples and generations, within our neighbourhoods and on the world stage."

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR MOHAMED ALI
Vice-chairman, Religious Rehabilitation Group

"The Malay word 'Bakti' (in the Malay name of the award) does not just mean service but carries the connotation of serving with the highest level of devotion and dedication to each of our causes.

"Therefore, this award should spur us to think of creative and proactive approaches to improve ourselves and our community."

MR GREGORY
VIJAYENDRAN, SC

Immediate past president, Law Society of Singapore; partner at law firm Rajah & Tann

"I am grateful to my wife, family, and law firm colleagues for supporting, and the Law Society team for strengthening, my service in leadership.

"Significantly, a strong collaborative partnership between the Ministry of Law, Judiciary, AGC, Singapore Academy of Law, law schools and Law Society was the alchemy to navigate the crossroads of change and overcome the Covid-19 crisis.

"That unity of purpose is vital to surmount our post-Covid-19 challenges."
